head, and saw the glow of the city on the clouds. I was surprised, for I had thought that I was others they said, "Ember can tell you." She refused his question, not arrogantly but definitely, the high arts. He could be no more than a common sorcerer. Male wizards thus had come to avoid. In silence Dulse sought his name, and saw two things: a fir-cone, and the rune of the Closed. to a passage. Here the roof was much lower, just above his head. Water seeped down one wall and Golden's house, and a tent for the old folks to eat and drink and gossip in, and new clothes for. The Patterner never came to her much before noon, so she had the mornings free. She was used to. He asked Birch about the place. "That's Iria," Birch said - "Old Iria, I mean to say. I own the house by rights. But after a century of feuds and fights over it, my granddad let the place go to settle the quarrel. Though the Master there would still be quarrelling with me if he didn't keep too drunk to talk. Haven't seen the old man for years. He had a daughter, I think." "Book's trash, is it?" said Crow, who was quick to pick up signals if they had to do with books. "Di thought it up," Rose said. "But on Roke, they learn to use power well, not for harm, not for gain." into a dark room; before I had time to step back something buzzed, a flash like that of a flashbulb. "That would be unwise," he said, with a good imitation of the Master Changer's terse solemnity. An essential element of the talent of the witch, sorcerer, or wizard is the power to know the true name of a child and give the child that name. The knowledge can be evoked and the gift received only under certain conditions, at the right time (usually early adolescence) and in the right place (a spring, pool, or running stream). choice, really. There was only one way for him to go. "Does Mother know?" Diamond asked. "The one," Rose said. As suddenly as the ewe had walked off, she went into her house. Dragonfly followed her, but only to the door. Nobody entered a witch's house uninvited. After him Otter climbed the winding stairs, broad at first but growing tight and narrow, passing farms across the island to hear the histories read, listening in silence, intent. "Our souls are. heifer follows him about like a puppy." Whatever he was doing out on the ranges with the bees, She stretched, feeling the ease of her body in the warmth, and her mind drifted back to Ivory. She had had no one in her life to desire. When the young wizard first came riding by so slim and arrogant, she wished she could want him; but she didn't and couldn't, and so she had thought him spell-protected. Rose had explained to her how wizards' spells worked 'so that it never enters your head nor theirs, see, because it would take from their power, they say'. But Ivory, poor Ivory, had been all too unprotected. If anybody was under a spell of chastity it must have been herself, for charming and handsome as he was she had never been able to feel a thing for him but liking, and her only lust was to learn what he could teach her. tried again, and stood up. Then he started forward. man cowered away, shrinking down, shriveling, crying out in a thin, high wail. It is wrong, wrong. Whatever he was, he wasn't a beggar by choice. light on crockery, the hearth stones, the table. But nobody sat at the table. His enemy was gone. Dulse knew better than to ask for explanation. The need to speak such a spell could not come. After a while he said, "I could chase an etymology on the brink of doom ... But I think, Azver, that that's where we are. We won't defeat him." screamed as green wood screams in the fire. of gifts and in pledge of peaceful intent, Erreth-Akbe went alone to the City of the Kings on. "The rast from Merid would be better," said the woman. All the eyes of her dress seemed. Banners still flew from the towers of the City of Havnor, and a king still ruled there; the banners were those of captured towns and isles, and the king was the warlord Losen. Losen never left the marble palace where he sat all day, served by slaves, seeing the shadow of the sword of Erreth-Akbe slip like the shadow of a great sundial across the roofs below. He gave orders, and the slaves said, "It is done, your majesty." He held audiences, and old men came and said, "We obey, your majesty." He summoned his wizards, and the mage Early came, bowing low. "Make me walk!" Losen shouted, beating his paralyzed legs with his weak hands. "My mastery is here, on Gont," he said, still speaking hardly above a whisper. "My master is. His voice was the voice of the slave in the stone tower. It was she who knew the true name of quicksilver and spoke it through him. breath. She stepped back from him. down the Inmost Sea to Roke. He drew back, staring, and made a fierce motion of his hand that brushed away the stream in a spray like a fountain blown by the wind. The gash in the earth grew deeper, revealing the ledge of mica. With a sharp rending crack the glittering stone split apart. Under it was darkness. Dulse paused. "He was my master. Would have been my friend, perhaps, if I'd stayed on Roke. Have wizards friends? No more than they have wives, or sons, some would say.... Once he said to me that in our trade it's a lucky man who finds someone to talk to. Keep that in mind. If you're lucky, one day you'll have to open your mouth." the words this night in his room in the barracks, he discerned another possible meaning in them. Archmage. It had come down through the generations of the descendants of Serriadh, and was their most precious possession. On it was carved a figure written nowhere else, the Bond Rune or Rune of Peace, believed to be a guarantee of peaceful and righteous rule. "Let the Kargish king wear Morred's ring," the Queen Mother said. So, bringing it as the most generous of gifts and in pledge of peaceful intent, Erreth-Akbe went alone to the City of the Kings on Karego-At..After a long pause he went on. "You know that a dragon brought back our Lord Sparrowhawk, with the young king, from the shores of death. Then the dragon carried Sparrowhawk away to his home, for his power was gone, he was not a mage. So presently the Masters of Roke met to choose a new Archmage, here, in the Grove, as always. The Four Lands were governed from Awabath. The high priests of the Twin Gods became Priestkings, In the year 840 of the Archipelagan count, one of the two Priest-kings poisoned the other and declared himself to be the incarnation of the Sky Father, the Godking, to be worshiped in the flesh. Worship of the Twin Gods continued, as did the popular worship of the Old Powers; but religious and secular power was henceforth in the hands of the Godking, chosen (often with more or less concealed violence) and deified by the priests of Awabath.
